DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

As per claim 1, "said first interval", line 5, lacks a proper antecedent basis.

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claim 20 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

In particular, the recitation "generating the first pseudo-random value from a previously chaos-based pseudo-random value generated before the first chaos-based pseudo-random value" in claim 20 is not supported by the specification.

4. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Art Unit: 2193

5. Claims 1-12 and 15-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Claims 1-12 and 15-25 are directed to a computer implemented method of calculation. In order for a claimed invention that is directed to such a computer implemented method of calculation to be statutory, the claimed invention must accomplish a practical application. That is the claimed invention must transform an article or physical object to a different state or thing, or produce a useful, concrete and tangible result. State Street, 149 F.3d at 1373-74, 47 USPQ2d at 1601-02. Also see "Interim Guidelines for Examination of Patent Applications for Patent Subject Matter Eligibility", MPEP 2106 and OG Notices: 22 November 2005. It is clear from claims 1-12 and 15-25 that the claims merely involves calculations and manipulations of data in performing calculations. The claimed invention does not transform an article or physical object to a different state or thing. The result of the invention is merely a sequence of numerical values without a practical application recited in the claims to make the result useful, concrete and tangible. Therefore, the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter as the claims fails to assert a practical application to the invention.

6. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

7. Claims 1-3,5-7 and 15-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Butler (6,678,707)

As per claims 1,15,16,18,19,21,26 and 27, Butler discloses in figure 8 a generation of a chaos-based pseudo-random sequence including defining a chaotic map (402-412) for generating a pseudo-random sequence of integer numbers in a certain interval, choosing a seed (the initial states) for the pseudo-random sequence of integer numbers, and generating numbers of the pseudo-rand sequence, defining a function (800) on the interval whose inverse has a plurality of branches and calculating numbers of a chaos-based pseudo-random sequence by applying the function to corresponding integer numbers of the of the pseudo-random sequence as claimed.

As per claims 2, 5 ,6,17,24 and 25Butler disclose in col. 8, lines 18-20, the function being also exclusive-or function as that of the present invention and thus the inverse of the function has a number of branches equal to the largest bound of the interval.

As per claims 3,7, 22 and 23 Butler discloses in figure 3 the chaotic map a truncated linear congruential generator.

8. Claims 13 and 14 are allowed.

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
